Islamic Republic Of Iran Regime is Rude

USPA NEWS - Imprisonment and threats have been the fate of the families of the protesters killed in Iran.
These families have suffered severe harassment and persecution by the government of the Islamic Republic of Iran solely because their children were killed by the government on the streets. Many of them are in political prisons simply for holding mourning ceremonies for their children.
It is deeply saddening that these families have lost the dearest individuals in their lives, their children, for peacefully protesting against the Islamic Republic regime during the wave of protests for freedom in Iran
Under The Name of (Women, Life , Freedom)
The silence of international organizations regarding these matters is deeply distressing. For example, one of these families is the family of Kian Pirfalak , a 9-year-old child who was killed by government forces in the city of Izeh, Iran, during the protests for freedom in Iran. Kian father was also shot and recently, after nearly five months since the death of Kian, the father of this little hero has returned to life. Last week, they held the 10th birthday ceremony for Kian Pirfalak at the cemetery, at the grave of this lost child.

Unfortunately, during Kian's commemoration, the government forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran attacked Kian's family once again at the cemetery.
This attack resulted in the death of Pouya Mollaei Rad, a close relative of Kian who was another young individual.
This government, led by Ali Khamenei, has demonstrated that it continues to show no mercy, even towards the families of the slain children.
They mercilessly kill and imprison them. After the ceremony, the government forces took Kian's mother to a political prison. Sadly, they did not hand over Pouya Mollaei Rad's body to Kian's family, and a week later, the government buried this young man without informing his grieving family, adding to their anguish as another slain protester.
Unfortunately, we are witnessing the silence of international news organizations, and the Islamic Republic government is very pleased, committing any crime it wishes against the oppressed people of Iran.

The freedom-loving people of Iran seek support from various countries around the world to confront the savage regime of the Islamic Republic. Unfortunately, no significant action has been taken in this regard, and powerful countries continue to maintain relations with the Islamic Republic of Iran, ignoring the demands of the Iranian people. Despite the fact that all nations and governments know that the absence of a brutal regime like the Islamic Republic of Iran, and the absence of a criminal figure like Ali Khamenei, would lead to a better world and enhanced security, they have not prioritized supporting the freedom-seeking people of Iran.
As a result, the Islamic Republic government freely and fearlessly continues its heinous crimes and brutal crackdown on protesters within Iran without facing any condemnation.
This is highly disheartening, especially when we witness the Islamic Republic government support Russia's unjust war in Ukraine or increasing financial support for terrorist groups. However, the silence of powerful countries and human rights advocates remains unbroken, which is deeply concerning for the future and for future generations.
